

SUBSCRIBER HELP · REVIEW & CONCEPT

Every subscriber, to the right place, first time.

A review of how DC Thomson subscribers find help today, a concept showing reChanneld on your existing website, with nothing redesigned, and an 8-week pilot to prove it on one title.

01 Summary	02 DC Thomson today	03 Subscriber journey review	04 reChanneld on your site
05 Routing & cancellations	06 Subscriber video	07 8 – week pilot	+ Concept on your site (separate PDF)

Dear DC Thomson team,

Your subscribers are loyal. The DC Thomson Shop scores 4.8 out of 5 on Trustpilot, and some of your titles have been part of readers' lives for generations. Growing digital subscriptions is now central to your transformation, and every subscriber you keep counts towards that.

We looked at how a subscriber finds help today, as someone whose Saturday paper didn't arrive or who wants to change how they pay. The help exists: a help centre, My Account, and teams who clearly care. But subscribers aren't guided to it. On dcthomson.co.uk the only subscriber action we could find is a cancellation form. Readers choose between four phone lines with different opening hours, and the same few questions keep coming back.

reChanneld is channel-strategy software from Helsinki. It gives every title one “How can we help?” front door that shows each subscriber the fastest route for their need: self-service, a guide, a form or the right team. It sits on top of the systems you already have.

Rather than describe it, we've done some of the work:

1

Journey review

10 findings and a scorecard of today's subscriber help experience.

2

Concept on your own site

Your real pages, unchanged, with one reChanneld layer added and 9 annotated ideas.

3

Pilot plan

8 weeks on one title, with clear KPIs, so you can decide with your own data.

We'd love 20 minutes with your customer experience or subscriptions lead to walk through it and hear where subscriber help hurts most today.

Kind regards,

Touko Laakkonen

Service Channel Strategy, reChanneld · [e-mail] · [phone]

A transformation built on subscribers

A family business with a 200-year heritage, now putting money into technology, data and AI to grow digital subscriptions and B2B products.

£41M

subscription revenue, FY to Mar 2025 (+1%)

50,000+

paying subscribers to regional news titles

75,000

the earlier digital-subscription target for 2025

4.8/5

Trustpilot score for the DC Thomson Shop

Recent milestones

- FY 2025 Revenue level at ~£134 M like-for-like, pre-tax profit £31 M, advertising +14%.
- May 2025 Ella Dolphin appointed Deputy CEO, with a focus on M&A and transformation across the portfolio.
- 2025 Air Business renewed on a 3-year contract for subscription management.
- May 2026 AI narration (BeyondWords × Pugpig) added to the Stylist and Press and Journal apps.
- Now Regional news subscribers past 50,000, still short of the 75,000 ambition.

What this means for subscriber help

- Keeping subscribers counts as much as winning them. Each frustrated subscriber is a churn risk on the £41 M line.
- The portfolio is broad. News, magazines, kids and puzzles each have their own readers, and one set of help rules across all of them would save effort.
- You buy focused tools. The AI narration shows you add specialist partners rather than rebuild your platforms. reChanneld fits that pattern.
- Your systems are already in place. Air Business, My Account and the help centre stay. What's missing is the guidance layer that connects subscribers to them.

The opportunity: make the help you already have the first thing every subscriber finds.

Finding help today: 10 findings

Reviewed as a subscriber with a missing paper or a billing question, 2 October 2026. These scores are our view.

2/10

FINDING HELP

3/10CLEAR CONTACT
ROUTES3/10SELF-SERVICE
SIGNPOSTING4/10OUT-OF-HOURS
HELP3/10OPTIONS AT
CANCELLATION9/10SUBSCRIBER
TRUST

01 No path for subscribers in the main navigation CRITICAL

The menu serves advertisers, investors, job seekers and partners: About, Brands, Careers, News, Northwood, Sustainability, Investment, Events, Contact and Advertise. There's no "Help" or "My subscription".

→ A "Subscriber help" launcher on every page. No change to your navigation is needed.

02 The one subscriber action in the footer is "Cancellation Form" CRITICAL

It sits among the legal links, with no "Manage", "Pause" or "Report a missing issue" next to it. Cancelling is the easiest subscriber action to find.

→ Keep the link where it is. When it's clicked, show pause, switch and talk options first, with cancel still one click away.

03 The Contact box is written for business enquiries HIGH

"Please get in touch to discuss your requirements" suits an advertiser. A reader with a missing issue doesn't recognise themselves in it.

→ When the Contact box is clicked, ask "How can we help?" and route subscribers, advertisers and press separately.

04 Four phone lines, chosen by title and topic HIGH

Courier digital, Press and Journal digital, home delivery and the magazine shop each have their own number. The subscriber has to do the routing.

→ Ask for the title and topic, then show the right route, and the right number if a call is needed.

03 · SUBSCRIBER JOURNEY REVIEW, CONTINUED

05 Different hours on each line, and none on Sundays HIGH

News digital lines are open Mon–Fri 8–18 and Sat 9–17. The magazine shop is open Mon–Fri 9–17. A reader who finds a problem on a Sunday evening has nowhere to go.

→ Self-service answers 24/7, with honest “we’re back at…” messages.

06 The same questions keep coming back MEDIUM

Despite the 4.8/5 rating, negative reviews cluster around late or missing issues, monthly vs quarterly billing, refunds and early renewal reminders.

→ Make these the top self-service tasks, available in two clicks.

07 Self-service exists but isn't signposted MEDIUM

There's a help centre and My Account through Air Business, but the corporate homepage doesn't lead to either.

→ The launcher links straight to the right help-centre article or My Account page.

08 Brand cards lead to brand pages, not to help MEDIUM

A People's Friend or Puzzler reader who clicks their title arrives at the brand story, not at subscriber help.

→ Add the same launcher to each title's own site and app. Every brand keeps its design.

09 Cancellation is shown without alternatives MEDIUM

Some subscribers who cancel only want a break, a cheaper option or a problem fixed. From the footer, they're offered only the form.

→ reChanneld shows pause, switch to digital and talk to us next to cancel. Cancel stays one click away.

10 No wait times before you call LOW

Subscribers can't see whether a line is open or busy until they dial.

→ Show live status and wait times in the help front door.

Before → after

Concept - reChannelled on the existing dcthompson.co.uk, prepared for DC Thomson, October 2019. Screenshots taken 12/01/2020. Yellow numbers match the notes in the proposal.

RECHANNELD - DC THOMSON

Your website, exactly as it is. Plus one front door for subscribers.

We haven't redesigned anything. These are DC Thomson's own pages, with one reChannelled layer added. It grants subscribers, links out what they need, and shows them the fastest way to get it done.

Design changes How it works Signatures explained Configured by your CX team

SCENE 1 - HOMEPAGE

A subscriber arrives. They now have somewhere to go.

Before the homepage serves advertisers, subscribers and job content, reChannelled adds a small launcher that only speaks to readers. Nothing else on the page moves.

SCENE 2 - THE FRONT DOOR OPENS

Title, topic, fastest route. Honest about times.

The subscriber picks their title and topic. reChannelled puts the fastest option first and shows real opening hours and wait times, so readers have to go outside of the four phone lines to call.

SCENE 3 - THE FOOTER

"Cancellation Form" stays exactly where it is. Now it comes with options.

We've moved the link for Cancellation Form. reChannelled shows the alternatives that might prefer and cancelling is still one click away. The Contact box gets the same treatment: subscribers and advertisers each up to the right place.

SCENE 4 - EVERY TITLE, EVERY SCREEN

The same front door on title sites and in apps. Live insight for your team.

Add the same layer to the Courier, Press and Journal, Sunday Post, People's Friend, Beano, Puzzler and more. Each title keeps its own design, and your CX team gets the same treatment: subscribers and advertisers each up to the right place.

What changes on your website

REDESIGN	CODE	SYSTEMS	ADDED
Nothing	One line	None replaced	A front door reChannelled - Better choices. Happier customers. - Concept for discussion. Mail Times, News and Sunday Post shown as illustrative.

Your website, exactly as it is. Plus one front door.

We haven't redesigned anything. The concept uses screenshots of dcthompson.co.uk as it is today, with one reChannelled layer added. The full page is in reChannelled-DC-Thomson-Help-Concept.pdf, and each yellow number matches a note below.

- 1 "Subscriber help" launcher. A small button on every page that only speaks to readers. Your homepage stays exactly as it is. Fixes 01 and 07.
- 2 Pick your title. The Courier, Press and Journal, Sunday Post, People's Friend, Beano, Puzzler and more. Fixes 04 and 08.
- 3 Topics, fastest route first. Missing paper, billing, pause and app help, each with an honest time such as "2 min · 24/7". Fixes 06.
- 4 Live status and the right number. Which teams are open now, the current wait, and the correct line for that title, so the call doesn't need transferring. Fixes 04, 05 and 10.
- 5 "Cancellation Form" stays where it is. When clicked, reChannelled shows pause, switch to digital and talk to us first, with cancel still one click away. Fixes 02 and 09.
- 6 The Contact box gets a question. "How can we help?" sends subscribers, advertisers and press each to the right place. Fixes 03.
- 7 Every title, every screen. The same front door on title sites and in apps, opening as a bottom sheet on mobile. Each brand keeps its own design.
- 8 Your CX team's view. Where each topic ends up, title by title, with A/B tests on the wording.
- 9 What changes: nothing in the design, one line of code, no systems replaced. Your CX team configures the rest.

Why no redesign

Your site already looks good and is built for many audiences. reChannelled doesn't compete with it. It adds the missing subscriber path on top, so it can go live in weeks and be tested on one title first.

Proposed starting rules

Built from public reviews and contact pages. In a pilot, your own contact data sets the final rules.

SUBSCRIBER TOPIC	ROUTE FIRST TO	WHY
Paper or magazine didn't arrive	Self-service	A recurring complaint. A form plus an automatic credit or replacement takes 2 minutes, 24/7, with no call needed.
Billing date or frequency	My Account	Shows the payment schedule clearly and prevents the monthly vs quarterly surprise behind several complaints.
Holiday pause / address change	Self-service	Simple, high volume and seasonal. It takes the pressure off before summer and Christmas.
App, e-edition or log-in	Guide	Step-by-step instructions by device, with a call-back as the fallback.
Renewal timing and reminders	My Account	Lets subscribers choose when and how they're reminded, answering the "too early" complaint.
Refund or complaint	Form – team	A structured form arrives with every detail, so the agent can resolve it in one touch.
Cancel or downgrade	Options + team	Pause, switch and talk shown next to one-click cancel. The team's time is protected for these conversations.

Cancellation, done right

UK subscription rules point towards cancellation being as easy as signing up. We agree: blocking cancellation damages trust and invites complaints.

What a front door can do is offer the right alternative at the right moment: a pause for the reader who's going away, a cheaper digital option for one watching costs, and a call-back for one with a problem. Cancel stays one click away.

How rules are set

- By title: news, magazines and Beano can have different routes
- By topic, the subscriber's own choice
- By time: different routes in and out of office hours
- By queue: steer to self-service when lines are busy
- Changed by your CX team in minutes, with no IT ticket needed

“Sorted in two minutes”: a 45-second help video

New help routes only work if subscribers know about them. A short, friendly video can sit in the help centre, renewal e-mails, the app and title social channels. It's made once, with a version for each title.

0:00–0:06 Saturday morning ☕ Doorstep... no paper 📰 ? VISUAL A reader opens the door: no Courier today. "Paper didn't turn up? We've all been there."	0:06–0:16 📱 "Help & subscriptions" → The Courier → Missing paper VISUAL On her phone: pick the title, pick the topic. "Just tell us your title and what's wrong."	0:16–0:26 ✓ Reported · credit added 1 min 48 s VISUAL Done before the kettle boils. "Sorted in two minutes, any day, any time."
0:26–0:34 ⏸ Pause · 💷 Billing · 📱 App VISUAL Quick montage of the other top tasks. "Holidays, billing, app help: it's all there."	0:34–0:40 ☎ The right team, first time VISUAL A friendly agent with an older reader on the phone. "And when you'd rather talk, we'll put you straight through to the right person."	0:40–0:45 [Title] · Help & subscriptions yourtitle.co.uk/help VISUAL End card in the title's own branding. "Help and subscriptions. We're here for you."

Formats

16:9 for the help centre, 9:16 for social and the app, a 15-second e-mail cut and a GIF. Captioned for viewing without sound.

Per title, from one master

The same story with different end cards and voice-over lines for The Courier, Press and Journal, People's Friend and more. One production, many versions.

Prove it on one title, with your own data

The suggested pilot title is The Courier: a high-volume news title with a dedicated subscriptions line.

WEEKS 1–2

Map

Review three months of contact reasons. Agree the top topics, routes and wording, and set the baseline.

WEEKS 3–8

Guide

The front door goes live on The Courier's help pages and subscriber e-mails, with A/B tests on the top five topics.

WEEK 9

Decide

Review the results together, then decide on a rollout to other titles in priority order.

What we'll measure

KPI	HOW
Calls per 1,000 subscribers	Phone data, before vs during
Self-service share by topic	reChanneld analytics
Out-of-hours help	Sessions outside office hours
Missing-issue handling time	Form to resolution
Cancellations converted to pause/switch	Choices in the cancel flow
Subscriber satisfaction	A one-click rating after each route

Who does what

reChanneld

- Set-up, routing rules and copy
- Analytics dashboard and weekly check-ins
- A/B tests and a final report

DC Thomson

- One CX contact, about 2 hours a week
- Three months of contact-reason data
- Adding the front door to The Courier's help pages

No new chatbot, no CRM change, and no change to Air Business. If it doesn't show results in 8 weeks, you stop.

Better choices. Happier customers.

reChanneld is channel-strategy software from Helsinki, Finland. It uses behavioural science, such as clear defaults, honest wait times and positive framing, to help customers choose the best channel for their need.

Customer service teams set it up themselves. It works with the systems they already have: help centres, account portals, contact centres and chatbots.

S-Bank, one of Finland's largest banks (3.3 million customers, around a million interactions a year), uses reChanneld alongside its chatbot to guide customers to the right channel, 24/7.

79%

of contacts typically guided to the client's preferred channel

24/7

guidance, including when teams are offline

0 systems to replace

Made in Finland, built with Nordic banks and insurers

Five nudges in every front door

Smart defaults

The best option comes first.

Honest times

Real waits and hours.

Social proof

"Most readers sort this online."

Fewer choices

Four options, not twenty.

Positive framing

"Done in 2 minutes."

Next step

A 20-minute call with your customer experience or subscriptions lead. We'll show a live demo, walk through the concept page and agree whether The Courier is the right pilot title.

Shall we take 20 minutes?

We'd love to hear how subscriber help works today, and where it hurts most.

Touko Laakkonen
reChanneld · [\[e-mail\]](#) · [\[phone\]](#)