

RECHANNELLED × DC THOMSON

Your website, exactly as it is. Plus one front door for subscribers.

We haven't redesigned anything. These are DC Thomson's own pages, with one reChannelled layer added. It greets subscribers, finds out what they need, and shows them the fastest way to get it done.

SCENE 1 · HOMEPAGE

A subscriber arrives. They now have somewhere to go.

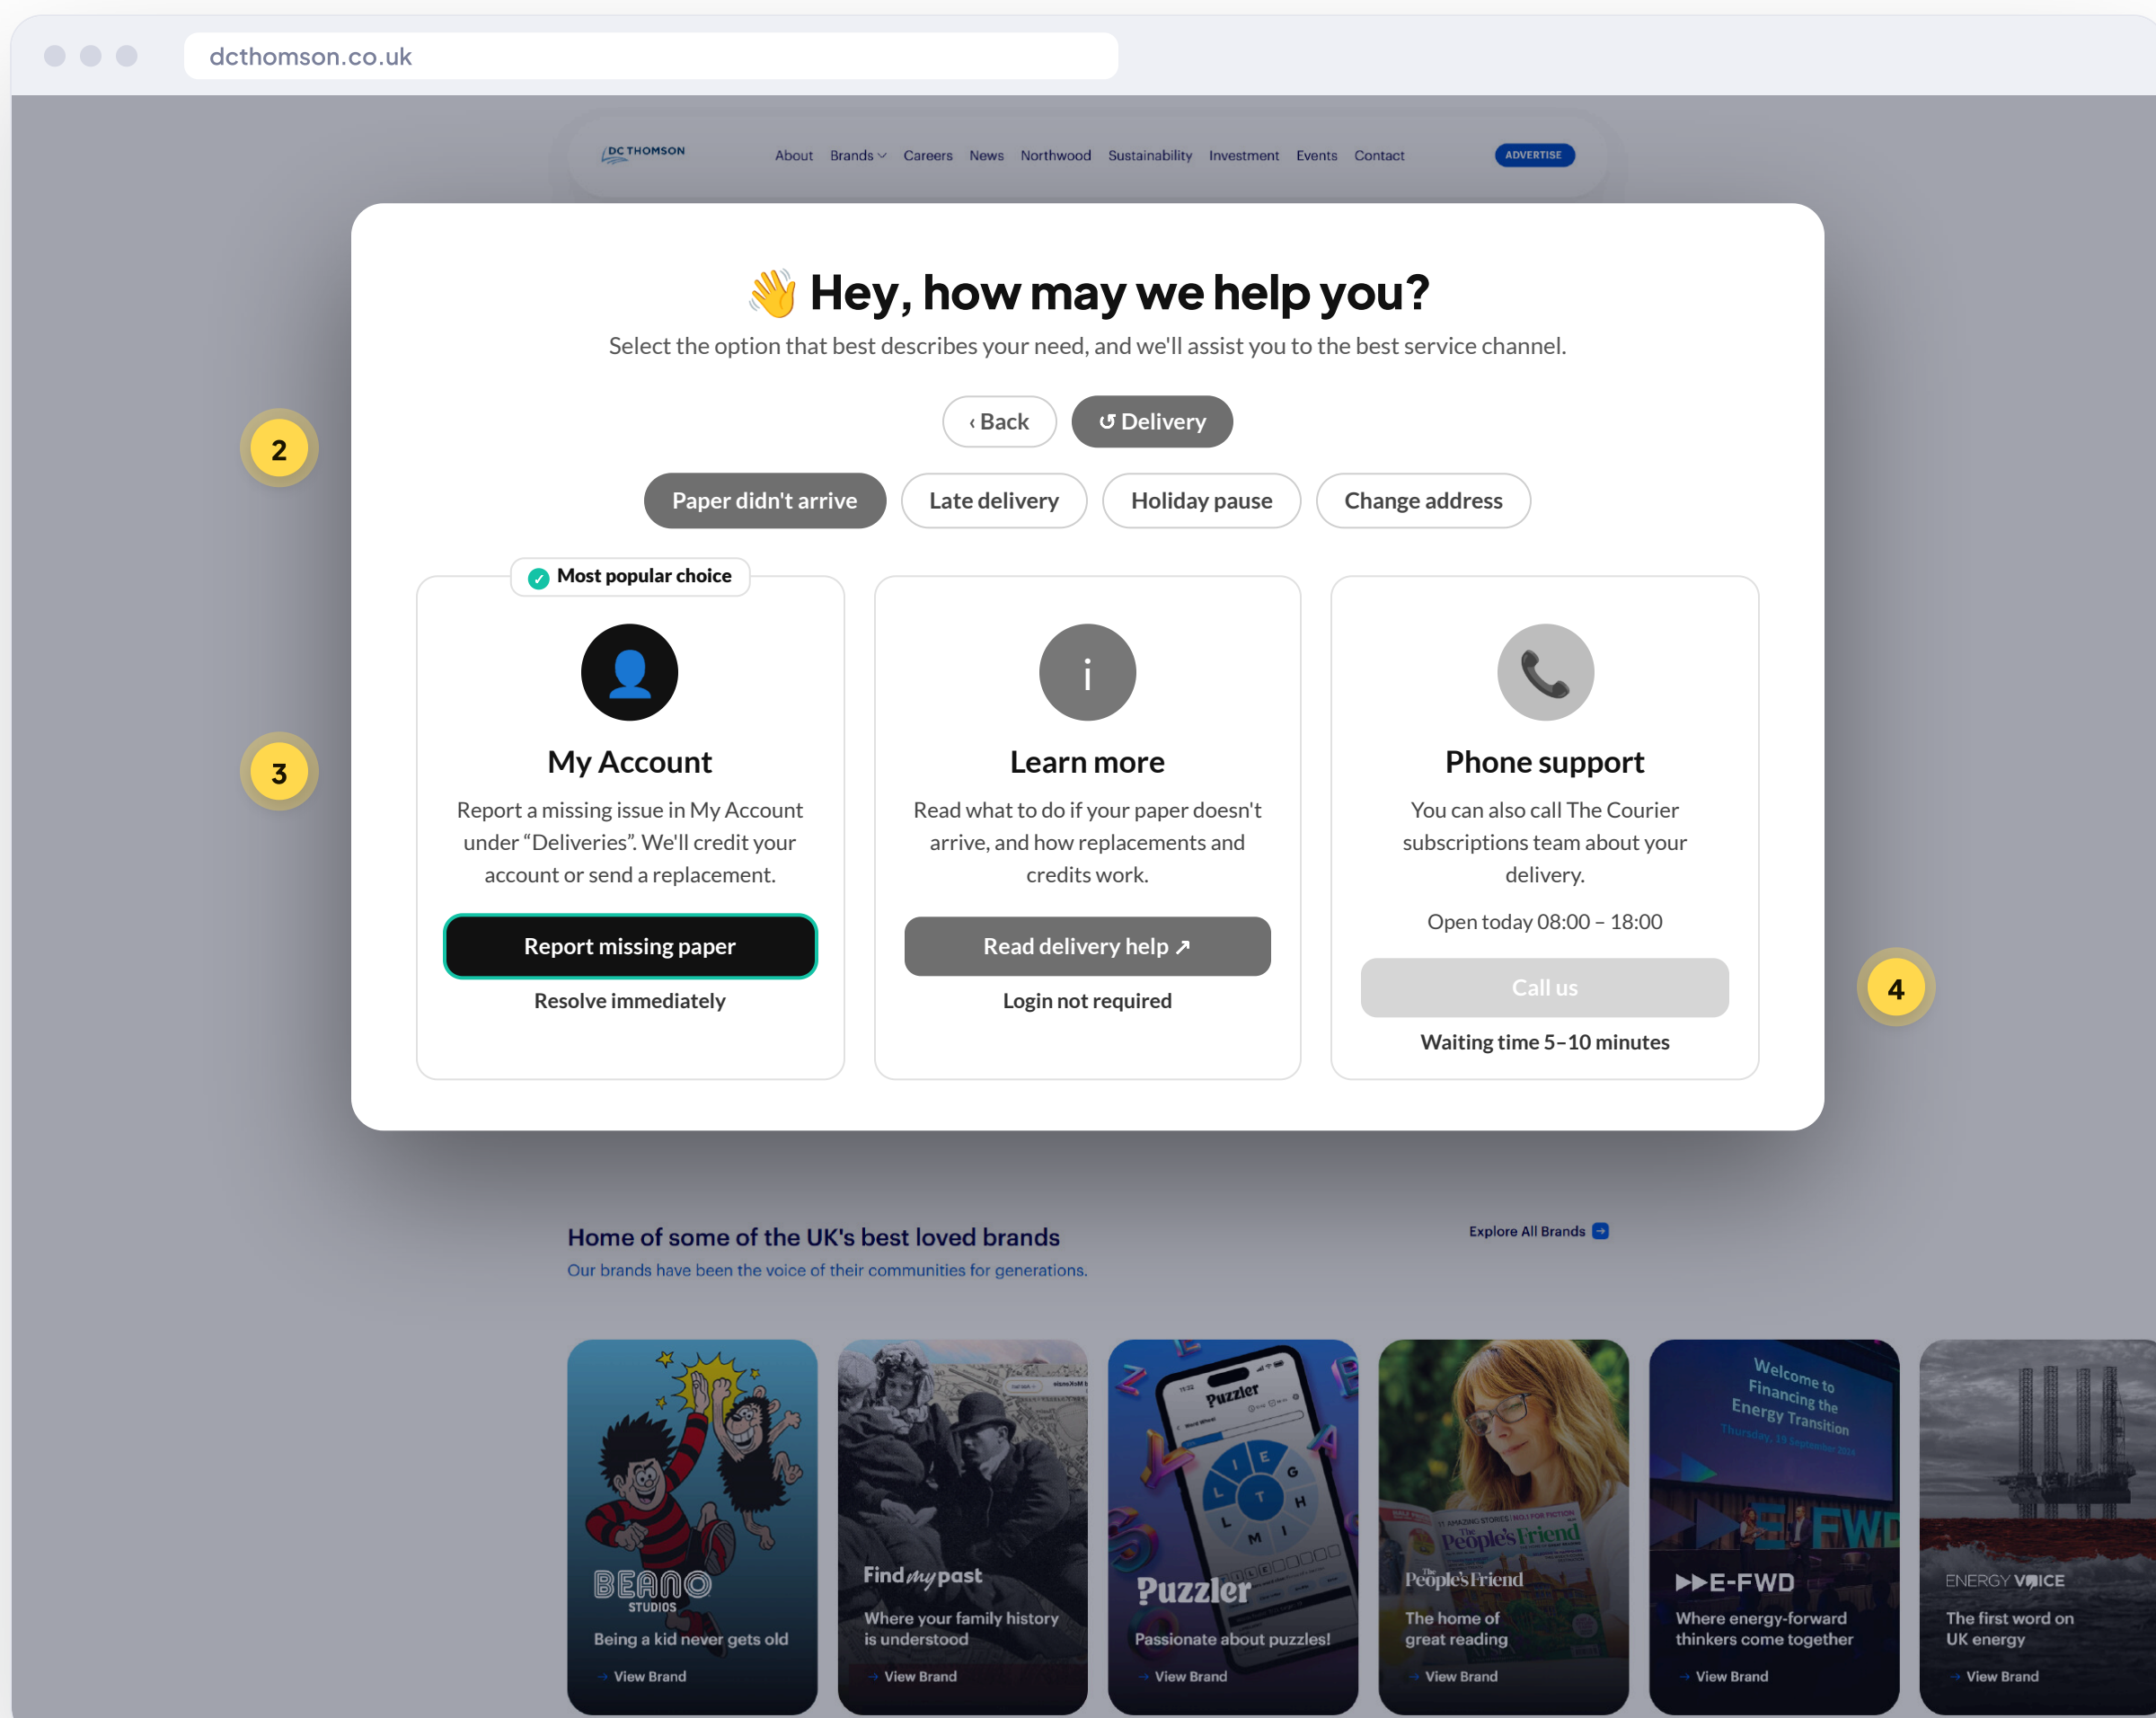

Today the homepage serves advertisers, investors and job seekers, and nothing on it is for subscribers. reChannelled adds one small "Subscriber help" button that opens the widget. It can also be embedded directly on a help or contact page. Nothing else on the page moves.

SCENE 2 · THE RECHANNELLED WIDGET OPENS

Topic, then the best channel, with the most popular choice highlighted.

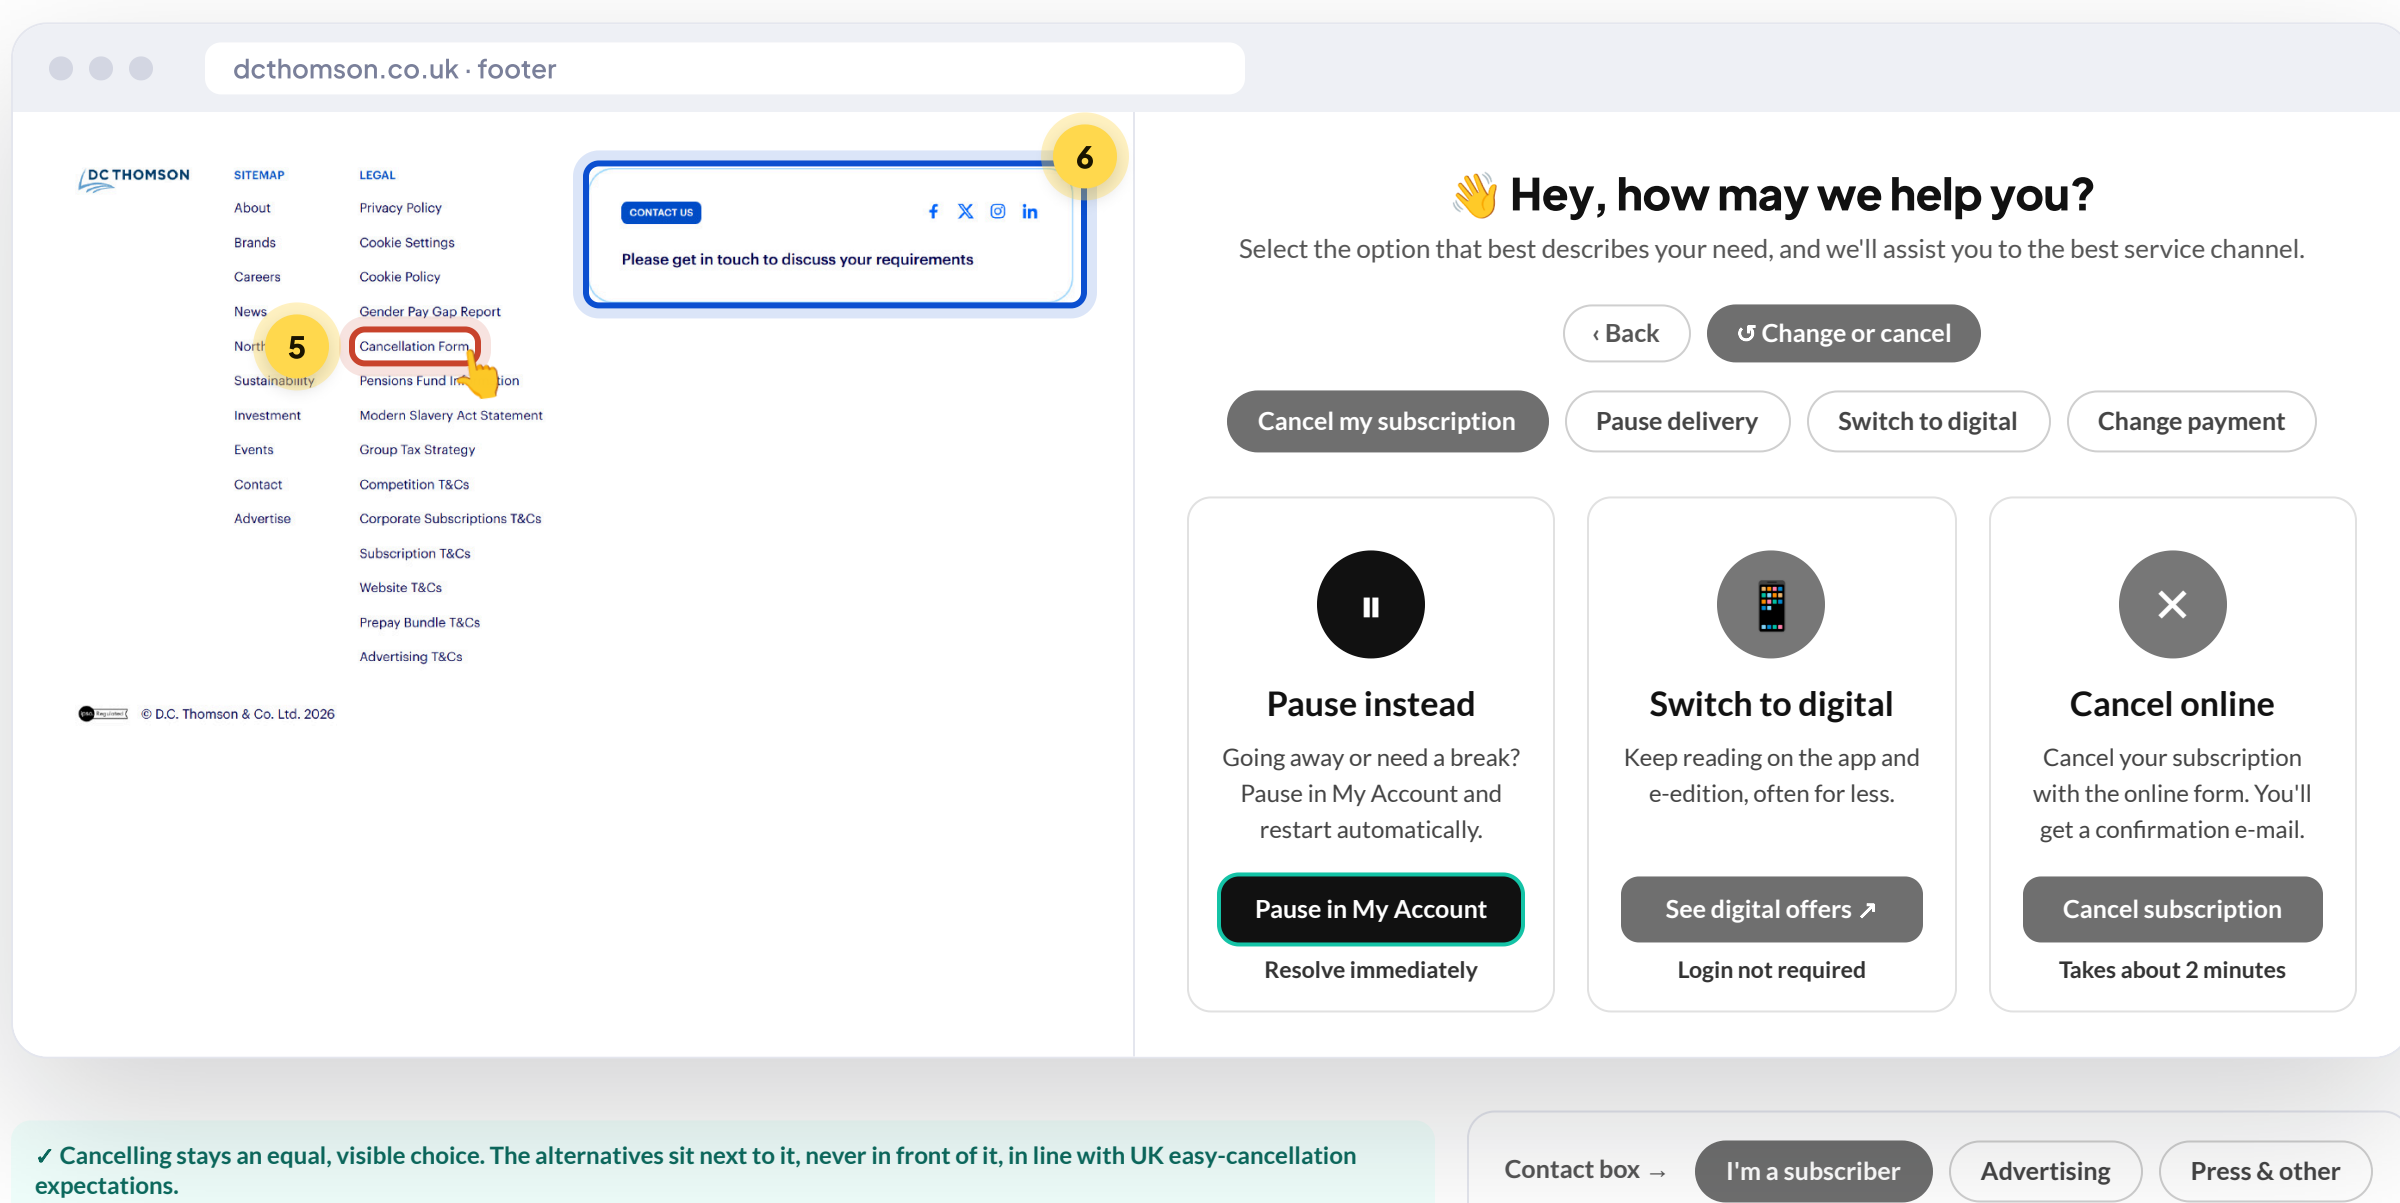

The subscriber picks a topic (Delivery) and then their exact need (Paper didn't arrive). reChannelled shows the channels side by side, highlights the most popular choice, and is upfront about opening hours and waiting times. This is reChannelled's standard widget with DC Thomson's own topics.

SCENE 3 · THE FOOTER

“Cancellation Form” stays where it is. Now it opens the right options.

Point the existing link at the widget's "Change or cancel" topic. Subscribers see that they can pause or switch to digital, and cancelling online is offered as an equal choice, never hidden. The Contact box can open the widget the same way, so subscribers, advertisers and press each find the right place.

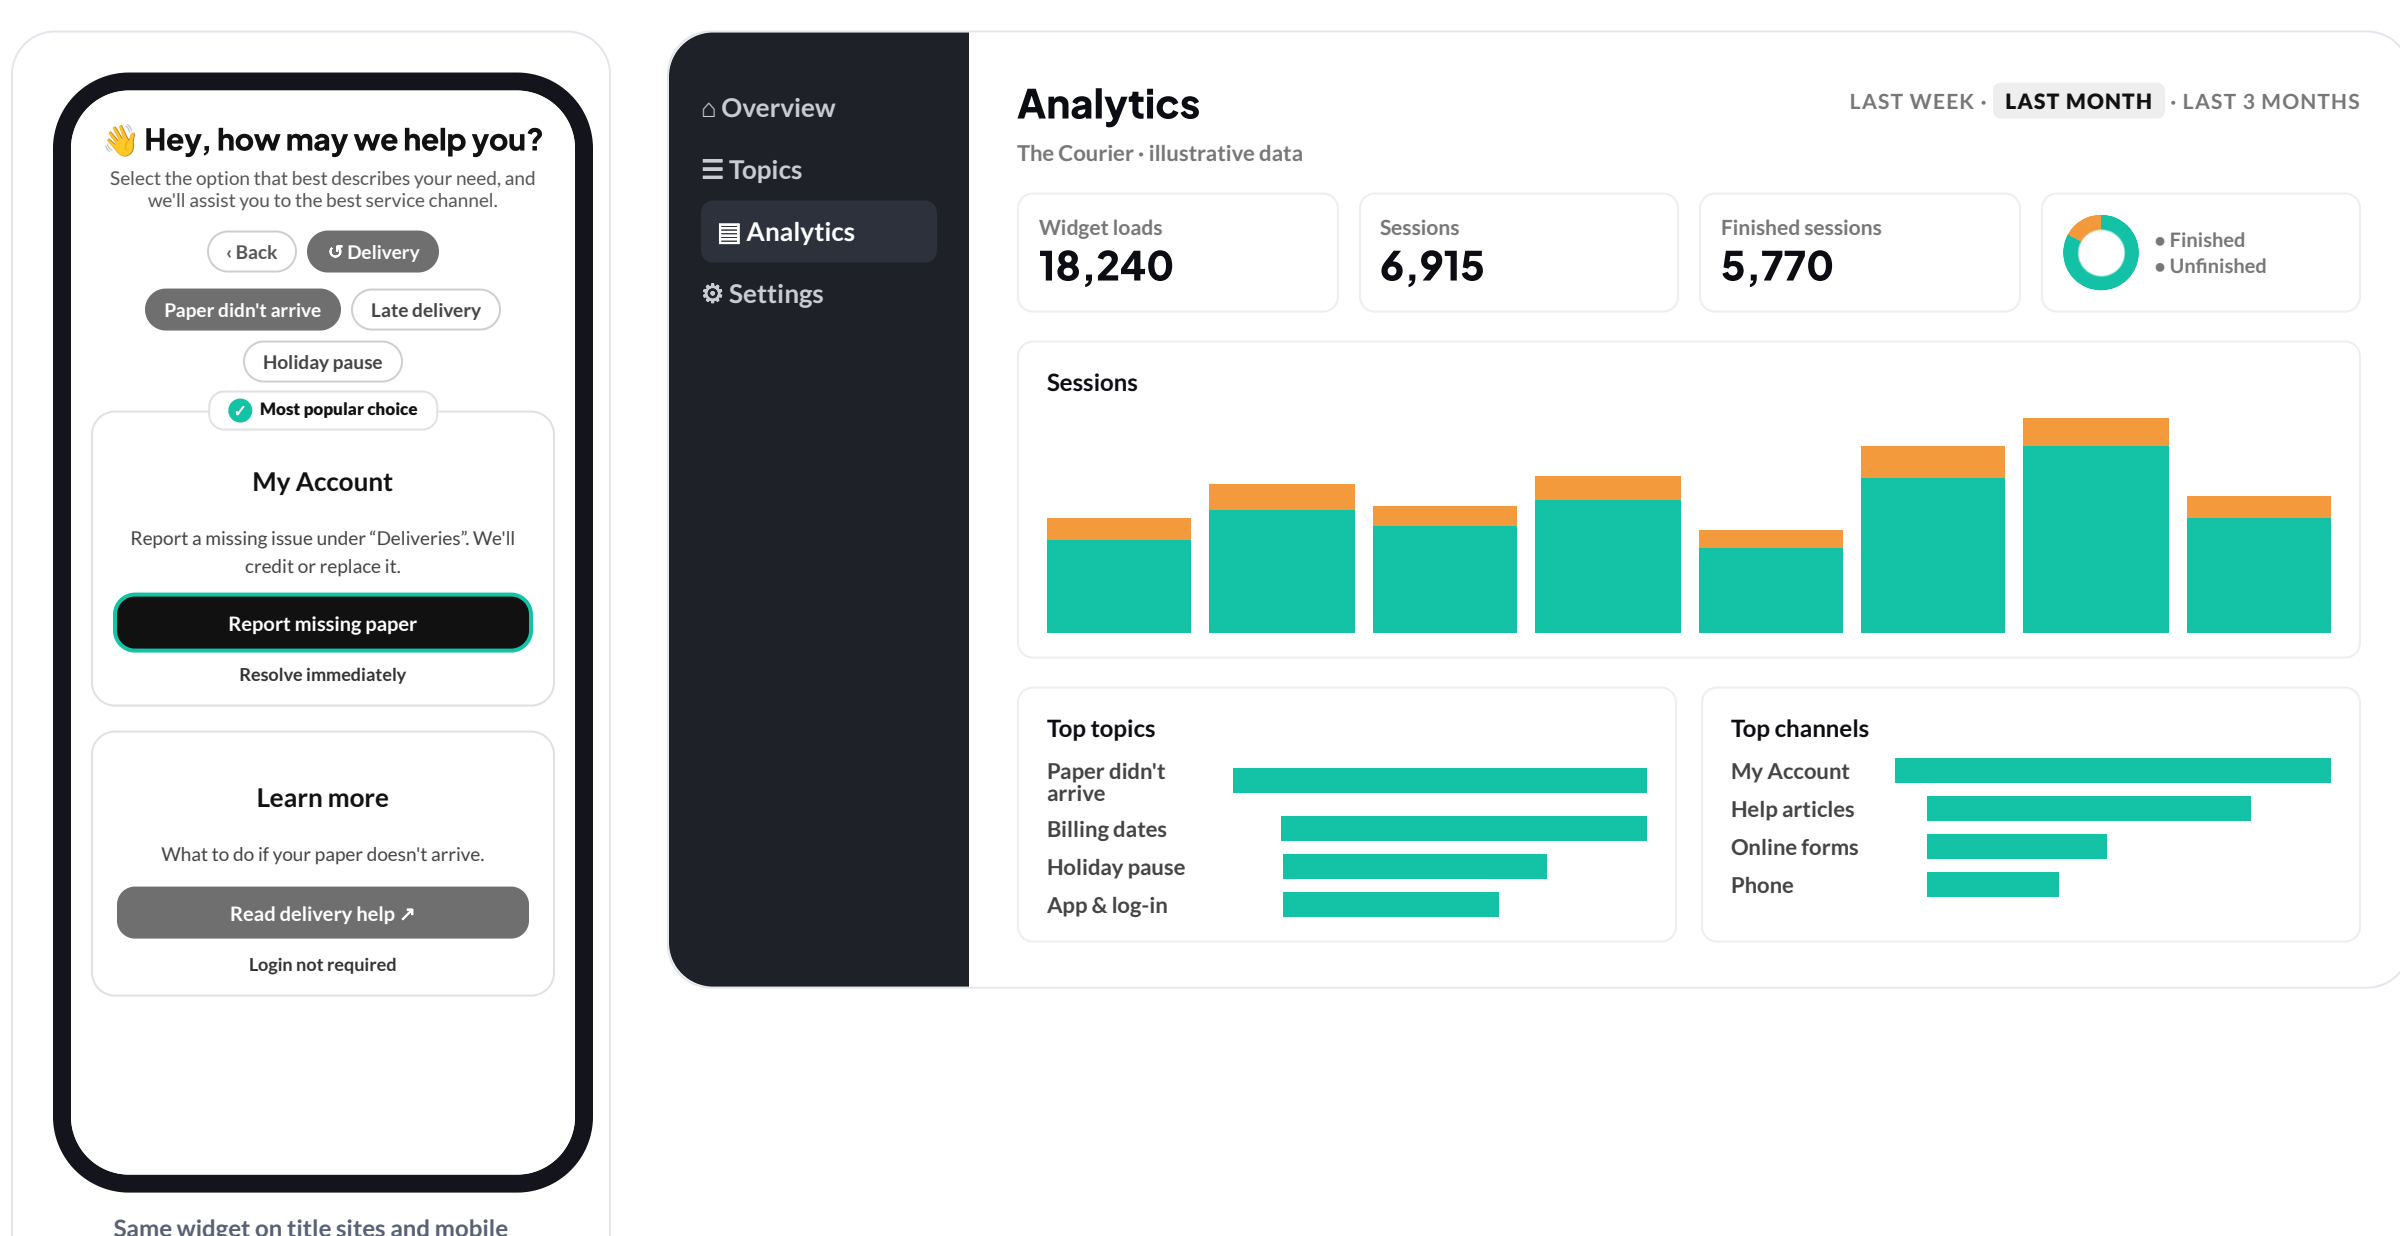

✓ Cancelling stays an equal, visible choice. The alternatives sit next to it, never in front of it, in line with UK easy-cancellation expectations.

SCENE 4 · MOBILE AND ANALYTICS

Works on every screen. Shows your team what subscribers actually need.

On mobile the same cards stack vertically. In the reChannelled admin panel, your CX team sees widget loads, sessions, top topics and top channels in real time, and can adjust content instantly.
